

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —

During my stay, Aug. 8-11, at Maine Medical I reviewed our hike of Aug. 4. Between tests and in a lonely private room I had plenty of time to record this journey for you.

The morning of Aug. 4 and my birthday a new world came into being with the gliding of the heavens with sunlight just above a trail barrier of an outpost of clouds. The hay fields leaped into existence with vast and sudden instances of light. On the peaceful waters of the pond there appeared a brilliance of mirrored light. All the previous rain had darkened and deepened the green of the landscape.

Ruth and I left home rather early for Evans Notch planning to travel Spruce Hill. Leaving the car the forest soon closed around us. We advanced into the green silent depths. Everywhere the earth was covered with spruce needles and rich with spruce smell. At times our feet sank into the deep plush of moss. In the very wet parts where our trail crossed or skirted, the ferns grew densely. They ran on and on, crowding together.

We continued to climb upward; at times clambering over a fallen tree.

We looked into or across the glacier carved valley and felt the remoteness, but not the loneliness which I feel here in this hospital room.

We could look across the expanse to the imposing ledges of the Boyce Mountains and we wished that we might be up there. We could only wish for we'll probably never try them.

Now and then a brook hurried down the hillside in its own gully, and would spread somewhere a small fan of misty falls among the trees then leapt off across the flat land. The hill was right fully named for in every direction the spruces stood tall and thick. The needles are in cross-sections and grow around the twigs, giving them a bottle brush effect. When beaten by storms, their stiff, crooked roots grip ledges like eagles' claws while their little branches bend compliantly. The mountain winds, rains, sunshine, and snow develop their strength and beauty. They were talkative old friends.

We reached the top of Spruce Hill with ease but didn't find the view expected so descended into the col and went on to join the road to Speckle Mountain. The way was rough, rocky and wet. The signs told us the mileage and the way.

It is always a privilege to spend time like this with one who enjoys as I do poking about in verdant woods whose feelings about the essentials of life appear to be much the same as my own.

At such time two minds, two pairs of eyes, working separately but together with concentrated interest, dismiss all need to invent small talk. This leaves room to ignore one another in the friendliest way, absorbed as we are in the newness of all plants and scenes near and far.

A frog popped into a pool, a bird spoke to us, the bear berry vine glistened, and the oxalis reminded us of our climb to Baldy and Frye River a few springs ago.

As we neared the top we looked up as through a long tunnel to the sky, a bit hazy. All lay in charmed silence.

We sat to eat our lunch; with the glorious landscape spread around us: mountains, valleys, innumerable lakes; with the wide sky bent tenderly over all.

We picked a few mountain cranberries, took pictures, then started home.

We took a different trail, but not from choice, so found it much longer going back arriving at the car very tired but I think much better than sitting here within four walls waiting, just waiting. I can vision the sun, low, staining the air with pale yellow and deepening as it set into the soft green of the horizon.

Edla Tamlander was hostess to a housewares party at her home on Tuesday evening.

Ruth Hastings spent a few days in Yarmouth with her sister the last of the week.

North Paris

— Eveline Barrett, Corres. —

The West Paris Old Home Days have come to a close. Everything on the agenda attracted enormous crowds. The parades were very good, no rain so the roadsides, etc., were well filled with spectators. I haven't heard who got the prizes. The barbecue started with 200 chicken halves and had to get more. Four hundred at the fried clam supper and four hundred at the smorgasbord Sunday evening. More than 150 attended the flag raising at North Paris Sunday. The rain ceased just before the speaker, Rodney Abbott, was about to begin and the sun peeked through. Harold "Red" Perham and Joe Barrett who made the deal with the Methodist Conference, sat at the head table. The twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Abbott, Rachel and Rebecca, born April 3 and April 4, were the youngest in attendance and received a lot of attention.

Rodney Abbott did a fine job and the President, "Shrimp" Herick raised the flag while Adeline Stevens furnished appropriate music. Charles Knauer, Mexico, sang two solos inside the hall. His sister had just had a severe heart attack so he was not really in the mood, but he did a fine job.

Several of the oldest Community Club members were present. Coffee, doughnuts and punch were served.

Callers at Adeline Stevens, Lorenzo Stiles, Doyce Foxcroft, Mrs. Kenneth Willard, Turner, Mr. and Mrs. William Haines, St. Petersburg, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Cummings and Lucy, Freeport.

Bob and Sylvia Johnson moved into their former home this week. Sylvia came home Thursday from Mercy Hospital, Portland, where she was a patient 12 days.

Adeline Stevens called on Eveline Barrett Friday and saw the sheets dragging in the tall grass, so she went home for her syringe and mowed a path to the brook. Other callers, Madelyn Jacobs, Louvie Coffin, Mrs. Anna Raab, Bronx, N. Y., Florence Barrett, Charles Knauer, Mexico, Doris Lawrence, John Estes.

Lionel O'Brien is working at Gladding Paris Co.

Stanley Herick had a body cast put on Saturday at St. Mary's Hospital.

The O'Hearens took the 4-H exhibit to Skowhegan Fair. Friday John and Lolo took his sister Jane to Portland airport.

This year marks the fifth year that the Minchews have spent vacation time on North Pond.

In this edition there is also a short poem written by Alene Minchew on why we like Maine.

Why We're Maine-lacs?
We're Maine-lacs because of Maine's:

Blue skies;
Clear lakes;
Fresh air;
Cool, clear water;
Cotton clouds;
Soft breezes;
Tall, sweet smelling trees;
Playful chipmunks;
Happy chirping birds.

Friendly people,
Many smiling faces,
Shining beaches,
Waving hands,
Warm hellos,
Silence—train whistles heard from a distance, bullfrogs bellowing in the stillness.

Majestic mountains,
Majestic suns—illuminating mountainous horizon of colorful splendor.
Gentle nights
Illustrious moonlight
Enchanting starlike evenings.
THAT'S WHY... —Alene Minchew

COUNTY DEMOCRATS MET
AT GEHRING HALL, AUG. 12
The Oxford County Democratic Committee was treated to a combination of an old-fashioned political exhortation by State Democratic Chairman Harold Pachols, and an excellent meal put on by the Bethel and Greenwood Town Committees, at their monthly meeting held on Thursday, Aug.
12 at the Gehring Hall dining room in Bethel. In addition to Chairman Pachols, there were many prominent Democrats present, including Assistant Majority Leader Mary Najarian of Portland, Rep. Jim Tierney of Durham, Senator Phil Merrill, manager of Sen. Muskie's reelection campaign; Martin Rogoff, manager of Jimmy Carter's successful primary season campaign in Maine, and Peter Goodman, who is serving as Congressional hopeful Leighton Cooney's campaign manager. Retiring Legislator Emile Fraser of Mexico was presented with a framed certificate by the County Committee to commemorate his years of service.

Members of the Oxford County delegation to the Legislature who are seeking reelection introduced themselves and made brief remarks. They included Sen. Don O'- Leary of Mexico, Rep. Albert Therault of Rumford and Rep.
Emily Saunders of Bethel. Ken Brown of Mexico and Ted Whitfield are seeking legislative office for the first time, as is David McKenna of Brownfield in Senate District 8 incumbents Leo MacDonald of Mexico, County Commissioner, and Sheriff Allan Howe of Waterford were present as were Albert Bellevue, running for Judge of Probate, and Ann Robinson, for Register of Probate.

Following the meal and introductions of guests and candidates, the Oxford County Committee held its monthly meeting with much time spent on campaign reports on the Carter, Muskie and Cooney campaigns by Rogoff, Merrill and Goodman, respectively. A spirit of cooperation and coordination was strayed by all three.

The September meeting of the County Committee will be held in South Paris on Sept. 9, with one feature of the meeting to be a workshop session on election procedures.

The Bethel Democrats wish to thank all who contributed toward the success of the occasion, in particular the dinner chairman, Aggie Thurston. The person who brought the food in an unmarked wood grained bowl may claim the container by calling Cathy Newell.

CLARIFY DISPOSITION OF FISCAL 1976 BUDGET SURPLUS
FOR MSAD #44
To: Citizens of MSAD #44
From: Superintendent of Schools
N. Kenneth Smith
Re: Issue of the Budget Surplus
The 1975-76 (fiscal year 1976) school budget surplus has created some controversy and unfortunately considerable confusion has resulted. I will attempt to explain the options are legally available to the School District Directors as well as the actions taken to date.

Some History
(1) An anticipated budget surplus was announced and subsequently verified by State Audit.
(2) Upon consultation with State Department of Education officials, I was advised that the following options were available to the Directors: (a) Leave the money in the bank and apply the surplus to next years budget consideration;
(b) Call a Special School District Meeting and ask that the surplus be re-allocated for specified educational purposes; (c) Call a special School District Meeting and ask for a reduction in the School District Appropriation.

(3) The Finance Committee of the School Board discussed the alternatives and felt the advice of the respective Selectmen was in order.

(4) The Selectmen from the five towns met and for various reasons, three towns advised returning the money to the towns and two said they preferred the District to retain the money.

(5) The Finance Committee could not agree on a recommendation to the full Board and so indicated on Aug. 8, 1976.

(6) The full board considered the options and by a 9 aye, 4 nay vote decided the following, and I quote:
"To call a special school district meeting for the purpose of seeing if the voters wish to have the 1975-76 school district surplus returned to the towns and if any meeting costs to be deducted in advance from said surplus."

(7) Considering the large amount of money in question and lack of a state precedent, I felt we should obtain all the procedural advice possible and I contacted the Maine Municipal Association, the State Department of Education, several Superintendents, the Maine School Management Association and they in turn the Attorney General's Office.

The following information was obtained: (a) the money can only be used for education purposes and it returned to the towns would be applied to next year's educational budget. (b) The Directors could, in effect, return the money to the towns but only after reducing the FY 77 local funds contribution—please refer to ART-ICLE IX in your MSAD #44 Annual Report for 1975. (Also several other articles would have to be modified.) (c) The District could invest the money as a surplus, but could not spend it. (They can invest it or let it sit in the checking account.) (d) The Directors can call a special school district meeting and ask the voters for the authority to increase the budget.

(8) On Aug. 16, 1976, the Directors voted as follows: (a) To place the Superintendent's investment of the budget surplus on the Agenda. (b) To give the Superintendent the authority to invest the surplus as he deems in the best interest of the District.

(9) During the Aug. 16 Board meeting, the following thoughts were expressed by several members: (a) The best interest return for the taxpayer should be considered if the money can only be used for educational purposes. (b) If nobody can presently spend it.

(10) The Superintendent should contact the Selectmen and explain the legal restrictions and continue to seek their thoughts. (c) The issue of what to do with the money should not be closed.

(11) Upon authorization for the Board, I have invested $102,000 for 30 days at 5 1/2%.

(12) In summary, the surplus will not be spent without the authorization of the taxpayers from MSAD #44.

Should you care to offer your thoughts on this matter or if you would like any further information, please contact either one of your Directors or me.

NOVA VOTERS TO HAVE CHANCE TO DECIDE ON VOCATIONAL BUDGET

The NOVA Cooperative Board has decided to ask voters of the 14 towns making up the Northern Oxford Vocational Area (Region 9) to consider one more time whether or not vocational education is wanted in this area, and if so, to vote on a minimal budget to keep the program in operation this school year. The meeting for the entire district will be held Tuesday, Aug. 24, at 7:30 p. m. at Muskie Auditorium, Rumford High School.

Board members stressed the importance of voters of the NOVA member towns who are interested in the continuation of the program attending the meeting as they said they want to be sure the citizens have a voice in whether or not vocational education will be offered this coming school year.

Warrants were posted in Andover, Newry, Bethel, Greenwood, Woodstock, Byron, Roxbury, Mexico, Dixfield, Canton, Carthage, Rumford, Hanover, Peru.

The warrant calls for the expenditures of $154,004 for vocational education this coming year, which is $5,000 less than last year.

It will ask for permission to use the NOVA adult education subsidy and the balance in the NOVA adult education budget for an adult education program in the area.

REGISTER OF HISTORIC PLACES
ADDS GEHRING CLINIC TO LIST
The Gehring Gehring Clinic in Bethel, has been entered on the National Register of Historic Places, according to Earle G. Sheffield, Director of the Maine Historic Preservation Commission.
The designation officially places it among the Nation's cultural resources considered worthy of preservation.

This impressive structure was built in 1899 by Dr. John Gehring a pioneer in suggestion and autopsychotherapy for nervous disorders. Used both as his residence and as a clinic for patients who boarded there, the house is a remarkable example of the Queen Anne style of architecture with elements of the Colonial Revival.

Himself a victim of a nervous disorder, Dr. Gehring received successful treatment in Europe from specialists using the latest psychological techniques. He returned to Bethel and began employing these new methods. Success brought many patients, mostly of a high intellectual level. At the suggestion of his wife, he opened their home to these patients as a place of rest and treatment.

Partly as a result of this, Bethel became an intellectual center sometimes referred to as "the resting place of Harvard University."

The structure was acquired by the National Training Laboraries from the late William Bingham, 2nd, in mid-1955 for use as a conference center.

BRYANT POND RESIDENT

RESEARCHES

WOODSTOCK HISTORY

Believing that history should be preserved, read and enjoyed, Mrs. Ruby Emery, Gore Road, Bryant Pond, has spent many hours over the last few years researching and compiling information concerning various sections of the Town of Woodstock. Her most recent project is "Old Times in Woodstock," a collection of the sketches of Jonathan Cushing Galloway, M. D., of Franklin, Mass., which were printed in a local paper in 1893-1900.

Dr. Galloway came to Woodstock when a small boy and grew up in Lincoln. He tells of the first settlements. He and his sketches are of people whom he knew personally. Her anecdotes are true to life and full of quaint humor or pathos, and pictures the customs and conditions of the times with a skillful hand. Mrs. Emery has put the sketches into book form and now has copies available.

A History of Hamlin Gore from 1810-1973 was compiled by Mrs. Emery 100 years after the Gore stock. It includes copies of the two Gore cemeteries and tells of owners and occupants of homes and camps in the area during that time. A recent seven page supplement updates the original history. More copies of this history are presently being prepared.

She is now gathering information for a history of the Pinhook, Billings' Hill and Sygoteh areas of Woodstock, which should prove to be of interest to local residents.

Thanks to everyone who made the opening of The Celler a great success. Special thanks to Bonnie Mills, assistant store manager, Allen and Evan Connors, and especially to my parent, Jill and George Marshall. GAIL CONNORS

ANDOVER HERITAGE DAY

Andover, followed by a women's and a children's water battle.

The flower show, with a theme of antique flower arrangements, was followed by a delicious luncheon and the old fashioned fashion show presented by Marie Lang which included fashions from the 1700's to the present day carnival queens of Andover. The fashion show proved to be a resounding success as it was last year.

The firemen's barbecue, which took place in the late afternoon rain, was also a success, even though everything was dampened except the spirit of the firemen and the soggy but happy diners.

The bicentennial quilt was awarded to Minnie Akers of Andover, the happy winner, and the Afghan sponsored by the Girl Scouts, was won by Harriet Glover. The Ethan Allen desk, donated through Andover Wood Products was won by Ralph Hersey of Rumford Point.

Square dancing, sponsored by the Andover Hook and Ladder was the order of the evening. The caller, Terry Campbell did wonders at organizing the experienced and not so experienced dancers.

Heritage Day was concluded on Sunday with an Old Home Sunday at the Congregational Church with people in period clothing and a pot luck luncheon following services conducted by a former Andover minister, Edwin Potter.

A hearty vote of thanks from the Heritage Day Committee is extended to the many individuals and groups who helped to make the day a memorable one for all the participants.

ANDOVER MAN ANNOUNCES

INDEPENDENT CANDIDACY

FOR DISTRICT 16 SENATE SEAT

J. Austin Daigle of Andover has announced that he is an independent candidate for State Senator from District 16 which is composed of towns in parts of two counties: in Oxford county the towns of Andover, Byron, Dixfield, Hanover, Mexico, Newry, Roxbury, Rumford, Upton, plantations of Lincoln and Magalloway, TA No. 1 and other unorganized territories; in Franklin County the towns of Avon, Carthage, Bustis, Jay, Madrid, Phillips, Rangeley, Temple, Weld, Wilton, plantations of Coplin, Dallas, Rangeley, Sandy River and unorganized territories.

J. Austin Daigle

by helping to establish effective government at least cost. He would like to have less "regulations" — many of which are often confusing and restrictive for citizens and businessmen, especially small business. He opposes further gun control and other legislation which harasses rather than help state citizens — he would give Free Enterprise a freer hand.

Upon completion of high school Daigle enlisted in the U. S. Navy serving first as a radio operator on the USS BEAR during Admiral Byrd's U. S. Antarctic Expedition 1939-41. His last Navy assignment was Communications Officer Naval Shipyard, Portsmouth, N. H. at which time he lived in Mount Vernon, Maine, where he operated a summer hotel.

Later he was an instructor in the Coyne Electrical School, Boston, then moved to Syracuse, N. Y., and worked in the Defense Contract Administration Office with assignment in the General Electric Co. plants, from where he retired and moved to Andover where he still maintained a summer cottage nearby.

He thinks Maine is a fine place to live, but a hard place to make a living and if elected would direct his efforts at trying to improve the business climate to bring in new industry and keep what we now have to improve work opportunities for our young people especially so they don't have to move out of state for a job.

Daigle graduated from Chenier Radio and Business College, Beaumont, Tex., where he earned a Commercial Radio Operators License. He is graduate of the Navy School, Monterey, Calif., and attended Tufts University where he was a political major.

Daigle is married to the former Virginia Merrill of Andover and combined a family of eight children who are living in Maine, Massachusetts and New York.

LOCAL ARTISTS EXHIBITING

WORK AT ART CENTER

IN NORWAY

Several local artists have entered their work in the Western Maine Art Group's Open Exhibit at the Art Center in Norway. Among those whose paintings will be on display now through Aug. 29 are: Elizabeth Woronoff, Douglas Bane, Suzanne Osborn, Walter Clark, Bethel, and Nancy Bollo, Bryant Pond.

The hospital has been designated by the State as the coordinator of the immunization program for the fourteen towns in Northern Oxford County. Town officials have been invited to send a representative, who would serve as chairman of the program in their area, to Thursday's meeting.

Health Information Forum members, who will assist with promotion, have also been invited along with other key persons.

The swine flu vaccine will be arriving in Maine the latter part of September or early October in preparation for an anticipated outbreak of swine flu.

Some 22,000 people in Northern Oxford County should be immunized during the month of October to avoid a possible epidemic in this area before the "flu-season" starts in November. To accomplish this task, the hospital will need the assistance of many volunteers.

Interested nurses and volunteers may contact Jacqueline Horner, RN, director of nurses, or Rosabelle Tiffert, director of public relations and personnel, at the Rumford Community Hospital. Names of those volunteering from the area towns will be forwarded to the area chairmen. Representatives from Bethel at the Aug. 26 meeting will be Sue Laban and Merion Brown.

Daigle feels Governor Longley is trying very hard to establish fiscal responsibility with lower cost of conducting the State business, and that as an independent he could best serve the people of his district and the State of Maine.
